Preface

The conduct of regular, periodic, free, fair, credible, inclusive and safe elections is at the very core of democracy. Therefore, the requirement to provide a safe and secure environment for the conduct of electoral and electioneering activities is essential to the development, deepening and consolidation of democracy and democratic governance. Since it was establishment in 2011, the Inter-agency Consultative Committee on Election Security (ICCES) which brings together security and other State agencies and institutions responsible for securing elections under a common umbrella with INEC has evolved as an effective and widely accepted body for managing electoral security in Nigeria. The 2023 General Election will be the third electoral cycle during which ICCES will be working together under a common platform with INEC to promote cooperation, coordination and synergy among member agencies to address the challenge of election security in Nigeria.

Over the years and based on lessons learnt from each General Election and other elections since 2011, ICCES has found it necessary to review and strengthen the collaboration among member agencies with specific reference to their functions, roles and responsibilities. This is with the objective of improving inter-agency efficiency, enhance information flow and to facilitate rapid response in the effective management of electoral security by “acting as one”.

In the run-up to the 2019 General Election, significant efforts were made to develop a single, harmonized code of conduct and rules of engagement for member agencies to provide common standards of behaviour during electoral duty. This was done without prejudice to the unique characteristics and idiosyncrasies of each of the services. Since then, there has been significant improvement in the cooperation and synergy between the Police as the lead agency in election security and other agencies especially in the area of training, deployment, operation of a joint election situation room and the adoption of a harmonized code of conduct and rules of engagement for their personnel on electoral duties.

The ICCES code of conduct and rules of engagement for security personnel on electoral duty has been reviewed based on the field experiences and input received from member agencies. The updated document not only demonstrates the strength of inter-agency cooperation within ICCES but also reaffirms the commitment of member agencies to support the conduct of peaceful elections and democratic consolidation. The personnel of member agencies of ICCES are therefore implored to conduct themselves in accordance with the code of conduct and adhere strictly to the provisions of the rules of engagement for the delivery of free, fair, credible and inclusive elections in Nigeria.

APPENDIX FOUR

4.0 Force Order No. 237

4.1 It is obviously not possible to deal with all the circumstances in which it may be necessary for an officer to use firearms. The following notes are principles by which an officer should be guided. It must be realized that these notes cannot override the law and that if an officer is charged with an offence arising out of his use of firearms; it is for the court to decide whether, in the circumstances, his action was justified.

4.2 It is of the utmost importance that all officers realize how very essential it is to guard against the slightest misuse of firearms and to exercise the utmost forbearance humanly possible and that prudence can dictate, before resorting to the use of a lethal weapon which may result in the wounding or killing of a human being. An officer must remember that his action in using firearms which results in the killing or wounding of a human being is open to investigation by the courts and he is liable to be held responsible for his action under criminal law, if the court finds that his use of firearms was unreasonable in such circumstances.

4.3 An Officer may use Firearms under the following circumstances:

a. When attacked and his life is in danger and there is no other way of saving his life;

b. when defending a person who is attacked and he believes on reasonable grounds that he cannot otherwise protect that person attacked from death;

c. When necessary to disperse rioters or to prevent them from committing serious offences against life and property; N.B Remember that 12 or more people must remain riotously assembled beyond a reasonable time after the reading of the proclamation before the use of firearms can be justified;
d. if he cannot by any other means arrest a person who being in lawful custody escapes and takes to flight in order to avoid re-arrest; providing the offence with which he is charged or has been convicted of, is a felony or misdemeanour; and

e. if he cannot by any other means arrest a person who takes to flight in order to avoid arrest, provided the offence is such that the accused may be punished with death or imprisonment for 7 years or more.

4.4 With regards to 3.3 (a), an officer would have to prove that he was in danger of losing his life or of receiving an injury likely seriously to endanger his life. It would be most difficult to justify the use of firearms if attacked by an unarmed man. If a concentrated attack were made upon him by persons armed with machetes, firearms or bow and arrow or other lethal weapons he would be justified in using a firearm to save his life. In a case where he is attacked by one man, he would also be justified by using necessary applicable force to defend himself. If attacked by an individual with a non-lethal weapon (a heavy stick or machete), he would have to prove that he could not disable him with his baton or rifle butt and that other means available to him were not sufficient to protect his life.

4.5 With regards to 3.3 (b), this is self-explanatory and does not require further elucidation.

4.6 Fire should be directed at the knees of the rioters. Any ringleaders in the forefront of the mob should be singled out and fired on. Only the absolute minimum number of rounds necessary to suppress the riot should be used.

NEVER UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES WILL WARNING SHOTS BE FIRED OVER THE HEADS OF RIOTERS

4.7 As to 3.3 (d), firearms may be used to arrest a person who escapes from lawful charged or of which he has been convicted is a felony or misdemeanour. This power is conferred by sections 271 and 135 of the Criminal Code. A person charged with a felony or misdemeanour who escapes from lawful custody, by his escape commits a felony punishable to years of imprisonment. Firearms must only be used as a last resort. A person charged with or convicted of a simple offence who is escaping from lawful custody shall not be fired upon.

4.8 As to 3.3 (e), this covers the case where a fugitive has not been in lawful custody if the offence with which charged or of which he has been convicted is a felony or misdemeanour. This power is conferred by section 271 and 135 of the Criminal Code.
4.9 As to 3.3 (e), this covers the case where fugitive has not been in lawful custody and escape in order to avoid arrest in the first instance. The fugitive may then only be fired upon when the offence is punishable by 76 years or more. As in the previous case if escaping from lawful custody, firearms should only be used if there are no other means of effecting his arrest, and the circumstances are such that his subsequent arrest is unlikely. An officer who cannot effect such a criminal's arrest by any other means should warn the criminal that unless he stops and surrenders, he will fire upon him. If the criminal fails to stop, the Police Officer is then justified in firing at the criminal.
